Is the construction of the proposed Slatted shed complete with Cubicles along with underground slurry storage tank and associated works adjoining the existing Dry bedded shed and manure pit as listed on attached drawings, an exempted development under the planning regulations? This shed is being constructed in order to further increase the slurry storage capacity on the farm. All proposed concrete aprons on this development are clean areas and not used for housing but used for machinery traffic and keeping the yard clean for working on. All seepage from existing dry bedded sheds is collected in seepage tank REF no.7. The development will be constructed to current Department of Agriculture Building specifications.
